What Consumers Are Saying:

"I'm pleased with the results and how my problem was handled. Job well done—thank you!"

Kimberly Heeter

"I don't ever give high marks [but this time I had to make an exception]!"

Jose Lopez-Dee

Publications are available from the Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) on a variety of consumer topics—everything from automobiles to professional therapy to vocational schools. Visit www.dca.ca.gov to download publications or call DCA toll-free at 866/320-8652 to request a publication. To find out what's available, ask for the DCA Publications List.

Ensuring a Fair Marketplace

CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF CONSUMER AFFAIRS

Some of us sell goods and services. All of us buy them. The marketplace, where these transactions happen, is as old as civilization itself. Equally ancient is the practice of fraud and cheating in that marketplace. To help ensure a fair marketplace in California today, the Legislature created the Department of Consumer Affairs, which protects the rights of both buyers and sellers.

What we do:

The Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) educates consumers, giving them the information they need to avoid unscrupulous or unqualified people who promote deceptive products or services. DCA informs the public through publications available at DCA's Web site: www.dca.ca.gov, and through its Consumer Information Center at 800/952-5210 and the Policy & Publications Development (PPD) Office at 866/320-8652.

DCA brings information directly to consumers through outreach efforts such as presentations to community and consumer groups and by distributing consumer information at community events. DCA also develops partnerships with other community, city, county, and state consumer protection leaders who are working to help consumers become proactive. By sharing information, resources, and distribution methods, DCA strives to effectively serve all California consumers.

DCA supports and helps consumers

DCA advocates consumer interests before lawmakers. DCA also provides consumers with current license status information on the 2.4 million professionals licensed or certified through its boards or bureaus. (Simply click on “License Verification” at DCA’s Web site: www.dca.ca.gov.) DCA ensures that only qualified individuals are legally permitted to provide services in this state. Licensing also ensures that practitioners perform their duties to an acceptable standard and provides consumers with a remedy if a service is not delivered. DCA only licenses professionals who pass specialized examinations and meet experience and training requirements.

DCA is a regulator

DCA comprises 40 bureaus, programs, boards, committees, commission, and other regulatory authorities that license 2.4 million practitioners in more than 255 professions. DCA works with professions throughout the state to guard our licensees against unfair competition and our consumers from unlicensed practitioners.

DCA enforces laws to protect consumers

Enforcement of consumer laws is one of DCA’s primary responsibilities. The Department’s enforcement staff works with the Attorney General’s Office and local district attorneys to fight fraud in the marketplace. Many investigations are initiated as the result of complaints from consumers. If DCA determines wrongdoing, it can place licensees on probation. DCA may suspend licenses or take them away altogether. The Department also has the authority to fine businesses and individuals or issue various citations, Letters of Reprimand, and Cease and Desist orders. In less severe cases, our enforcement staff works closely with licensees to correct, eliminate, and prevent performance problems.

DCA mediates disputes

When a dispute arises between a business and a customer, many people think they have to go to court to remedy the situation. DCA has developed a program that is a time-saving, less expensive solution. DCA's Consumer Mediation Program provides an alternative method of resolving complaints without going to court. Through the mediation process, the individuals involved in a dispute can work out their own solution with the help of a mediator. Information on DCA's Consumer Mediation Program and local mediation programs is available at the DCA Web site: www.dca.ca.gov or by calling 800/952-5210.

DCA protects privacy

DCA's California Office of Privacy Protection (COPP) assists consumers with identity theft and other privacy-related problems. It also provides consumer education and information on privacy issues, coordinates with law enforcement on identity theft and high-tech and high-crime activities, and recommends policies and practices to protect individual privacy rights. Consumers may access the California Office of Privacy Protection through DCA's Web site or by calling 866/785-9663.

Our Mission:

To protect and serve consumers while ensuring a competent and fair marketplace.

Our Vision:

To be the recognized leader in providing innovative services that educate and empower consumers to make informed decisions.

Consumers, licensees, and businesses will have a safe, fair, and competitive marketplace.

Our Values:

As a government agency dedicated to protecting consumers and regulating a variety of professions, occupations, and businesses, the success and effectiveness of the Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) depends on:

- Serving our stakeholders with committed, knowledgeable, well-trained employees.
- Providing prompt and fair investigation and adjudication of violations of law.
- Educating consumers so they are capable of making informed decisions in a complex and changing marketplace.
- Licensing applicants to ensure job markets are easily accessible.
- Creating productive partnerships with consumers, licensees, and businesses.
- Developing automation systems that provide efficient and effective support to consumers, DCA employees, licensees, and businesses.
- Improving consumer access to critical health and safety information and educating them on the health benefits of clean air.

A Brief History

CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF CONSUMER AFFAIRS

California's commitment to protecting consumers began with the passage of the Medical Practice Act of 1876. The Act was designed to regulate the state's medical professionals, who up to that point had operated virtually unchecked. Additional professions and vocations were brought under state authority in the course of the next 30 years. By the late 1920s, the Department of Vocational and Professional Standards was responsible for licensing or certifying accountants, architects, barbers, cosmetologists, dentists, embalmers, optometrists, pharmacists, physicians, and veterinarians. The Consumer Affairs Act was passed in 1970, giving the Department its current name.

Today, DCA licenses more than 2.4 million professionals in more than 255 professions. To safeguard consumers, this involves setting the qualifications and levels of competency for the professionals regulated by the Department's boards and bureaus. These programs license, register, or certify practitioners; investigate complaints; and discipline violators. Boards, committees, and one commission operate independently, but rely on DCA for administrative support. Fees paid by our licensees fund DCA operations almost exclusively. Bureaus, programs, divisions, and offices are under the full control of DCA.
